

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA GIVES CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

A Dime Or A Toy Only Charge For Annual Toy Pile Hop Wednesday

Ten cents or a toy!

... that's all it takes to attend the annual Spartan Daily Toy Pile Hop, set for Wednesday afternoon, December 13, from 4:30 to 6:30 in the Women's gym.

Ten cents or a toy, that's all it takes to dance for two hours to the music of Sheldon Taix and his orchestra, featuring Johnny Cooper and Jack and The Three Jills in a specially arranged jam session. The last afternoon dance of the quarter, the affair will be staged.

HELP CHILDREN

Ten cents or a toy, that's all it takes to give YOU a good time and to give some less fortunate child a really Merry Christmas. The toys will be added to the Toy Pile in the Publications office and will be turned over to the San Jose Fire Department at the close of school, to be repaired and painted, according to Mary Traub, in charge of the dance.

Some of the toys will be given to the Santa Clara County Hospital and the rest will be distributed among various other local charities.

TOYS WANTED

Contributions to the stack of toys beneath the Christmas tree in the Publications office are still invited by Spartan Daily staff members.

The Toy Pile and tree will be transported to the Women's gym and will be on display there at the dance to carry out the Christmas theme.

Esquire Seminar Course Offered; Sign-up This Week

Men interested in the Esquire Seminar, the new course in clothing selection and etiquette offered for men by the Home Economics department, should pre-register this week with Miss Manchester in H. E. 32 during the following hours: 9-10 daily, 1-2 M.W.F., or 1-4 Tues. and Thurs.

The class is open to all degree students, but will be limited to 25 in enrollment. The course will include lectures on general appearance; posture; etiquette for the college man in society, in business, and in traveling; a gentleman and his speech; and what the well-turned-out man will wear in relation to his personality and his individual problems of line, color, and fabric selection.

The lectures on the varied subjects will be given by men who are authorities in their fields.

Joe West Announces Six-week, Nine Unit Summer Quarter

A six-week quarter, providing for nine units of work, will be given next summer, from June 24 to August 2, announces Joe West, college registrar.

Tuition for the summer session is $21.00. Unusual courses are offered, according to West, and a wonderful opportunity is given students to make up units as well as become acquainted with visiting instructors.

The dates given for the summer session in the catalogue are incorrect, Mr. West stressed. Last year's summer enrollment was over 1200 students, one of the largest summer session registrations in the west, he pointed out.

ONE MORE ISSUE

Due to members of the Spartan Daily staff taking final examinations, there will only be one more issue of the paper this week, that of Wednesday, December 13. All students and organizations intending to have notices and articles published in this issue must have them in the Publications by 2 o'clock Tuesday.

STAFF MEETS TODAY AT 1 O'CLOCK.

Largest Group In College History, Says Otterstein, Conductor

By MARY JANE KIRBY

Tomorrow night the largest orchestra in the history of San Jose State college, according to Mr. Adolph Otterstein, conductor and head of the Music department, will present a symphony concert in the Morris Dailey auditorium.

VIOLIN SOLOIST

Soloist for the program is Miss Frances Robinson, faculty member, and violinist of outstanding ability. She will play The First Movement, Violin Concerto in D Minor, by Brahms.

"Scherzo", a selection written especially for the San Jose orchestra, by Mr. Neil Daniels, Santa Rosa junior college faculty member, will receive its premiere at the concert. Mr. Daniels is a composer who is fast acquiring a reputation for his musical work. He has also written a number for the Brass Choir, which they have featured at several of their public appearances.

TO PLAY IN L. A.

The orchestra is planning to play for the National Conference of Music Educators in Los Angeles next March in answer to an invitation issued them several weeks ago. According to Mr. Otterstein, this is the only west coast college organization of its kind to be asked.

The other three numbers to be played at the recital are Mendelssohn's "Symphony in A Major", two selections from Wagner's "Die Walkure", "Wotan's Farewell" and "Magic Fire Music", and "Rhumaba", the concluding number, by H. McDonald.

CONCERT FREE

The program begins at 8:15 and is free to the public. Local music teachers and their students are invited to attend, as well as members of the college. Faculty members may get reserved seat tickets by applying at President MacQuarrie's office, announces Mr. Otterstein.

Frances Robinson Uses Valuable Violin In Concert

By IRENE MELTON

When Miss Frances Robinson, violin soloist in the college Symphony tomorrow night, appears before the audience for her number, she will be using a rare old David Tecchler (1727) masterpiece of one of the greatest of Roman violin makers.

Lent to Miss Robinson by Louis Rosenfield, expert dealer and importer of rare instruments of Kansas City, Missouri, the violin has a twin, in the Wurlitzer collection in New York, listed at a value of $4,500.

Miss Robinson's violin is not her only claim to fame, however. A teacher of violin and chamber music at San Jose State college for five years, Miss Robinson inaugurated the Annual Evening of Chamber Music at the college, as well as having played under the direction of such noted teachers as Harold Bauer and Walter Damrosch.

In addition, Miss Robinson studied at the Institute of Musical Art of the Juilliard Foundation in New York under the famous concert artist, Sascha Jacobsen.

The Approach of Basketball . . .

With the fall football season practically over, the present winter months are now heralding the approach of another basketball year. For quite a few nights during the next quarter the local pavilion will resound to the cheers and yells of students and townspeople alike as San Jose and the various opponents fight it out.

From all pre-season aspects, it is possible that San Jose may not be the leaders in the conference at the end of the season. But whatever the outcome is, "Silent" Bill Hubbard deserves credit and applause for the work being done to produce a team from the material on hand.

Whether it's win or lose, with stars or amateurs, Hubbard has been producing the best possible teams from the material at hand. San Jose has already been recognized for its football, now let's hope it will be recognized for the winter sport, basketball.

Players Produce Dickens' Classic Christmas Story

By BILL RODRICK

The spirit of Christmas, of good will toward men, etc. was effectively injected into the confines of Washington Square Thursday night with San Jose Players' production of Charles Dickens' perennial, "A Christmas Carol", adapted from the story by Miss Margaret Douglas who also directed the play.

Dickens' classic, the sentimental story of the villainous, miserly old man Scrooge, which has become practically symbolical of Christmas, was well adapted as far as dialogue goes, but the play viewed as a whole lacked symmetry. One gets the impression, particularly in the latter part of the first act, and in the second act of a number of individual scenes not tied together with any degree of real effectiveness. A complete understanding of the story would seem to be necessary to get a complete picture of the play as a whole.

PLAY GOOD

Naturally, production in the Morris Dailey auditorium was difficult because the stage presents considerable limitations which possibly accounts for the disjointed effect one gets; but the play was good as nearly any performance of so familiar a Christmas story of such real beauty would be, and there were some standout performances by some individual members of the very large cast.

Howard Chamberlin, as Scrooge, the miserable, spider-like individual soured on man and the world in general, as Scrooge in the transitional stage of becoming a human being, and as Scrooge, the penitent bent on doing his fellow men good, dominated the play with an excellent performance.

CRADDOCK AS CRATCHIT

As Bob Cratchit, William Craddock gave no inspired performance, but was good as Scrooge's downtrodden employee who never lost his faith in his fellow men. Scrooge's nephew Fred was played by Lewis Daniel who gave an enthusiastic, if a slightly juvenile performance and Patricia Ironsides' small contribution as his wife Della stood out because of its maturity and her fine diction. Playing up to the tastes of the audience, Babs Granite mugged her way through her scene as Dorinda. John Weybrew gave a fearsome performance as the Frankensteinish Marley's Ghost.

and worth mentioning is the dog Patsy who seemed more interested in the audience than his art, and the Texas drawl of Tom Fessenger who played the Londoner, Peter Cratchit.

Extremely difficult to work out, the technical department did a nice job on the sets. The singing of the Bel Canto club and the Christmas Story in Scripture done by the Verse Choir effectively got the audience in the Christmas spirit. Although it should have been cut shorter, it was an interesting innovation.

Olympic Bowl Off; Colorado Mines Seek Prune Bowl

San Jose State's undefeated, untied football team saw its last ray of hope for a post-season or bowl game fade out yesterday when Coach Dudley S. DeGroot returned from Los Angeles without seeing the "Olympic Bowl" officials who failed to show up to discuss plans for the proposed game on December 16 in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

THE SPORTS Pony Express By PONY SWENSON

The beginning of this story dates back a year ago last September when Coach Dud DeGroot summoned his Spartan football squad to early season practice.

TOUGH GOING—In addition to a squad of veterans, the Spartan camp had an influx of junior college transfers, among whom was a little Southern drawling boy from an oil town down the coast a way. He didn't weigh much over 160 pounds, but he was out for one of the guard spots. If there was ever a position hard to muscle in to on the Spartan squad that year, it was guard. DeGroot had veterans three and four deep for the two positions flanking the center.

WORKED UP—But this didn't stop the little newcomer; he kept hammering away and before the season was very far along he had wormed his way up the ladder and was seeing action in a lot of ball games. A few times he even worked up to the starting lineup. "Bird Legs", as he was nick-named by DeGroot, was among the selected few to make the trip to Hawaii.

DEVELOPES—Following football season our hero took life easy, put on a few pounds, added a few inches to his height, and when spring practice rolled around he looked bigger and better and took over a first string position for keeps.

When he reported for practice this season he was close to six feet tall and scaled approximately 180 pounds. All during the past campaign he played inspirational ball. In five games, with the pressure on, he pulled out of the line to break scoreless deadlocks with field goals.

HE'S GOT IT—Consistently, he has proved he has the "old desire", or what makes some football players better than others. Time after time he has delivered the goods when the "chips were down". That's the history of the rise of potentially one of the greatest football captains in San Jose history, Ken Cook.

Gym Team Outlook Bright As Eleven Sign With Fahn

Prospects for a polished gymnastics team next quarter appear bright after Friday's sign-up, with 11 aspirants, several of them experienced, applying for membership, Jim Fahn organizer, announces.

Last season's Spartan six-man team took unofficial second place in the California State College conference, and Fahn believes the squad will go places this year. The 1940 conference will be held in San Diego. Included in the league besides San Jose State college are Fresno State, Santa Barbara State, and San Diego State.

Signing up for the gymnastics team are Owen Collins, former Spartan track captain, with tumbling experience in Long Beach; Dick Kong, who took fourth place in last year's meet; Bevo O'Connor, third place winner; Ray Fahn, No. 2 tumbler in southern California last year; and Jim Fahn, first in the conference tumbling and second in all-around apparatus.

Others who have signed up are Loren Wilder, Bob Fields, Chris Eala, James Farwell, Dill Penistan, and Dick Miyagawa.

Seniors, NOTICE!

Seniors or other students who will leave school at the close of the present quarter may make arrangements for securing copies of La Torre, student year-book, by presenting their student body cards and by payment of $1 at the Controller's office, Bill Laffoon announces.
